

🎵 KEV'S ITUNES WRAPPED 2021 🎵

Created December 2nd, 2021, just a day after Spotify Wrapped came out and ruined my life.

A Quick Introduction

December 1st, 2021: I woke up slowly and looked outside. It was snowing lightly, causing a smile to creep across my face. Christmas season was upon us! "Nothing can ruin my mood today," I thought to myself as I sat down at my desk and prepared for another workday.

And then I opened Instagram.

It was everywhere. Every single story on my feed. Spotify Wrapped had taken over. Hell, a guy from my highschool even posted that he was in the top 0.1% of Logic listeners. In 2021. Weird flex.

Anyway, the reason it upset me so much was simple: I don't have Spotify. Or Apple Music. Or anything else. I'm still out here tor- uhm, buying and downloading all of my music. It's the only way to live, and I'll die on that hill - but I digress. The only feature that streaming services offer that I feel like I'm missing out on year after year (and it may shock you that a data analyst feels this way) is what Spotify Wrapped offers: those sweet, sweet summary stats.

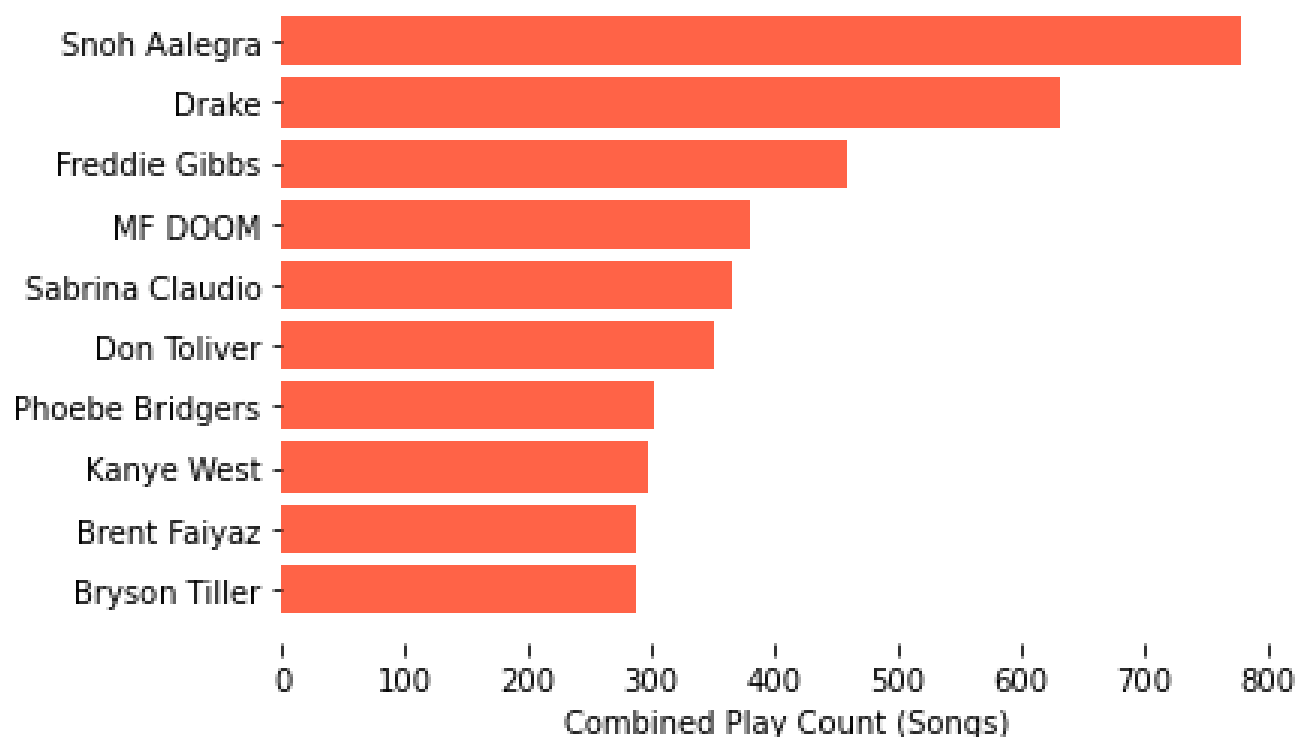

So, I got to researching, and here I am two days later - a little better at Python, a lot better at seeing others post their Spotify Wrapped without entering an uncontrollable rage, and very confused about how I'm going to explain to my friends that I listened to MF DOOM almost 400 times this year.
