

KEV'S ITUNES WRAPPED 2023

Created November 29th, 2023, and on my lunchbreak instead of during the workday this time.

A Quick Introduction

T and I went to a play (social outing for assholes) a while back and they made a joke about how people who send out Christmas newsletters are assholes. 'So true', I whispered to T, only a few weeks before building my annual Christmas newsletter for music like an asshole.

This year's findings were so embarrassing that I had to add a brand new page measuring listens by hour instead of play count. It helps the story a little bit, but at the end of the day all of my top 10 songs were either by Drake or White Drake. I might never reputationally recover from this.

The story here is that I'm slowly morphing into Gerard. 10K less hours of music listened to this year than last year, and a rock (ish?) album made it into the top 10. I spend every summer day fighting the urge to ask my neighbors kids to get off the lawn (this is not a joke), and I'm probably no less than two years away from taking an interest in the Kitchener Jazz Festival.

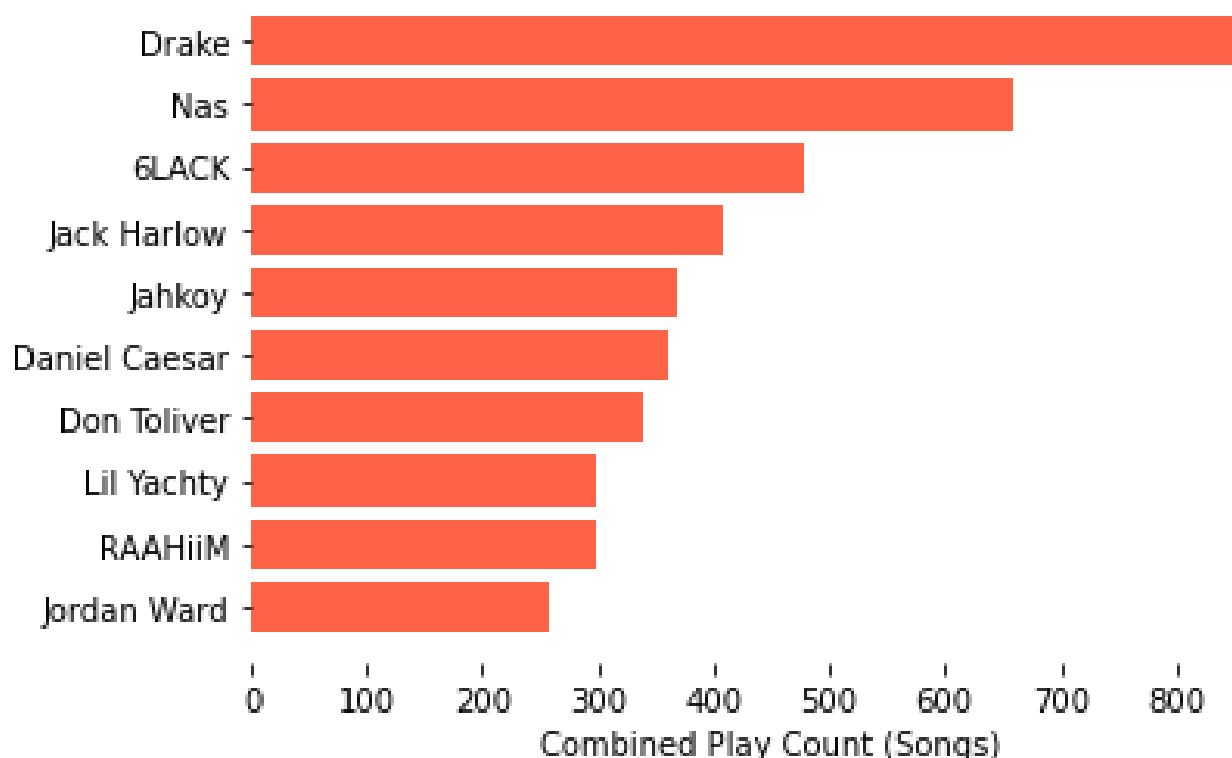

Cheers from your Kevin, the one you've known since you were seven.
